Letter from the Director

Summer at Hui No'eu is the perfect time to get creative! No matter your age or skill level, you'll be sure to find a Hui art class that refreshes your spirit and gives you confidence in your artistic abilities. By actively engaging in the visual arts, you will also discover new ways of thinking, seeing, and understanding that will continue to inspire your creativity outside the Hui classroom. Invite a friend to join you in a class and register for one of these fantastic opportunities (pg. 3 - 12) today!

As I look over the many names on our 2010 Donor List (pg. 13 - 17), I am incredibly grateful to be part of such a vibrant community of artists and art supporters. The classes, exhibitions, events, and outreach programs offered at Hui No'eu throughout the year are all made possible by the tremendous generosity of supporters like you. Thank you for believing in our mission of unlocking creativity through exceptional visual arts education!

Student Salon 2011

May 7 - June 9

Hui No'eu Visual Arts Center is proud to present this biennial, multi-media exhibition of artwork created by Hui students and teachers. Curated by the Hui's core faculty—teaching artists representing a wide range of artistic media—the pieces selected best represent the technical skills and overall spirit of the students' classes and workshops held over the past two years. Some of these artists have never before exhibited in a public venue, while others have shown regularly for over thirty years—a fitting demonstration of the Hui's mission to support lifelong education in the visual arts.

Solo Artist Exhibition

Featuring Sidney Yee, Kevin Omuro & Scott Groeniger

June 18 – July 23

Members' Opening Reception: Friday, June 17 / 5:00 – 7:00 pm

Walk-through with Scott Groeniger: Saturday, June 18 / 12:00 noon

Walk-through with Sidney Yee & Kevin Omura: Saturday, July 9 / 12:00 noon

Hui No'eu Visual Arts Center is proud to present our 2011 Solo Artists Exhibition! Sidney Yee and Kevin Omuro will present work that considers the "turnip" as a means to explore paint and clay with aesthetic awareness. Scott Groeniger from Honolulu will present prints that study the transformed landscape in China due to rapid industrial revolution. The Solo Exhibition is one of the only exhibitions in the State of Hawai'i that provides the unique opportunity for artists to be personally involved in all facets of planning and installation. For more information on walk-throughs, please visit the exhibitions page at www.huinoeau.com

Youth Art Exhibition

July 30 – August 13, 2011

Family Day: Saturday, July 30 / 10:00 am – 2:00 pm

Keiki, teens, parents, and families: join us on July 30 as we come together to celebrate youth arts in our community! The opening of the Youth Art Exhibition will highlight work completed during summer art camp, featuring photography, ceramics, painting, drawing, jewelry design, animation, comic illustrations, and more! Come participate in a hands-on arts activity, enjoy some fantastic eats, and get to know the Hui community.

Visualizing Green

August 27 – October 8, 2011

Members' Opening Reception: Friday, August 26 / 5:00 – 7:00 pm

This themed exhibition welcomes artists to investigate and creatively interpret the many ways in which "green" appears in our world. Whether inspired by nature, the environmental movement, the emotions this color provokes, or any other inspiration, artists are encouraged to develop and express an authentic vision of what "green" means to them. Visualizing Green will exhibit works that delve deep into creativity, engage the viewer in a thoughtful way, offer new insight, and demonstrate the profound importance and diversity of this omnipresent hue. All are welcome to participate!

Hui Happenings

You're invited....

2011 Artist-in-Residence Patrick Dougherty!

Join us this September for a chance to work alongside 2011 Artist-in-Residence Patrick Dougherty! Internationally recognized for his "stickwork" sculptures, Patrick will work directly with the community to develop, plan, and create a site-specific installation using saplings of invasive trees. Visit www.stickwork.com to view photographs of Patrick's work!

Who is invited?

Anyone interested in volunteering or participating in arts-based activities surrounding the sculpture: visitors, schools, teachers, gardeners, firefighters, tap dancers, and YOU!

What is the process?

1. Two to three days collecting invasive plants such as strawberry guava under the guidance of our friends at Pu'u Kukui Watershed Preserve and the Hawai'i State Department of Land and Natural Resources
2. One day working as a team to develop word associations and visual notes that will inspire the look & feel of the sculpture design
3. Three full weeks of hands-on building & installation

How can you participate?

Every stage requires the guidance and support of a team of volunteers! We need help harvesting and transporting saplings, preparing the trees for the sculpture, assisting the artist with construction, and more! During this time, the Hui will also offer workshops in photography, video editing, plein air painting, and other arts-based opportunities. If you love (or are curious about) environmental art, we want you to be involved in this exciting project. Let's get together and CREATE something!

Why is this project important?

The resulting sculpture will mark the launch of the Hui No'eau Environmental Art Garden: Ho'ololi. This new public art program aims to cultivate community and raise awareness about Hawai'i's endangered ecosystems by inspiring conversation, encouraging public participation, and building fellowship between artists and environmentalists. The installation created by Dougherty and his team of Hui volunteers will enjoy a lifespan of approximately 3 years, offering countless opportunities to experience and share the "stickwork" sculpture.

We need your help today! Give us a call at (808) 572-6560 ext. 33 or visit our Kickstarter page at www.kickstarter.com (search for Hui) to make a tax-deductible donation. Thank you for helping us make this project possible!

Hui Stands Stronger After Recent Renovations

Despite approaching its centennial in 2017, the Hui's historic main house hardly looks its age. Thanks to the continuous generosity of Hui supporters, several generations of Maui residents and visitors have been able to experience the original beauty and charming character of the Kaluanui Estate.

As with any aging property, maintaining Kaluanui's picturesque grounds and buildings requires ongoing diligence and care. Over the past year, the Hui has undergone several important renovations as part of the Kaluanui Preservation and Stewardship Program—an initiative that seeks to preserve and protect the Hui's twenty-five acres of natural, open space. With the tremendous support of the Alexander & Baldwin Foundation, Atherton Family Foundation, Gage Schubert, Mary (Maizie) C. Sanford, and an anonymous donation, the Hui has been able to perform much needed repairs to roof tiles and gutters, door handles, and the jewelry studio, provide improved care for the estate's many trees and the field near the Children's Studio, and make many other improvements that have enhanced the learning environment for the more than 10,000 people who visit the Hui each year.

Renovating a historic property is a particularly tricky business that demands incredible accuracy and attention to detail. Fortunately, the Hui's dedicated Board of Directors, donors, and staff have ensured that recent upgrades have blended seamlessly with the historic essence of the estate. The Hui's brand new roof so flawlessly matches the style of the old one that it would take a discerning eye to perceive the incredible amount of work that has been done to replace the aged, decaying tiles. When it came time to restore the solarium's worn, original door handles, the Hui called upon the expertise of one of its core faculty members, J.B. Rea, to create accurate replacements. As a professional jeweler and instructor for over 40 years, J.B. was able to create a perfect casting of these one-of-a-kind brass handles using the facilities at the Hui's very own Ginny & Art McCoy Jewelry Studio!

On behalf of the Hui's many artists and art supporters, we wish to send a heartfelt mahalo to the foundations and individuals whose contributions enabled the Hui to make such significant improvements this year. By supporting the Kaluanui Preservation and Stewardship Program, these donors have invested in Maui history, the students, patrons, and visitors of Hui No'eau, and the Maui arts community as a whole. Thank you!

Want to become a part of history? Give to the Hui's Kaluanui Preservation and Stewardship Program today! To make a tax-deductible contribution or for information on sponsorship opportunities, please contact Membership & Development Coordinator Birgitte Golden at (808) 572-6560 ext. 33.

Visiting Artists

Scott Groeniger

June 17 - 19

Scott Groeniger's current artwork is thematically concerned with identifying the connections between environmental and social decay, domestic ritual, the language of advertising, futures scenarios, economic collapse, and the politics of global consumption. Scott has also worked extensively in China and is interested in the current economic, cultural, and environmental issues facing the Chinese as they transition into a major global superpower. Scott works in digital printmaking, video/sound, and drawing. He lives in Honolulu, Hawai'i and is an Assistant Professor of Digital Imaging at the University of Hawai'i at Manoa and has been selected as one of the Hui's Solo Artists for 2011.

Free Artist Walk-through & Lecture

Saturday, June 18 / 12:00 noon

Raster Meets Vector: Incorporating the Drawn Mark into Photography and Contemporary Digital Printmaking #145

Sunday, 1 day

June 19 / 10:00 am – 4:00 pm

Get ready to explore the world of digital imaging! In this one-day workshop, Hui 2011 Solo Artist, Scott Groeniger, will guide students through the process of integrating vector (drawn) images and digital photographs using Adobe CS 4. Students will investigate artists who are working with this aesthetic, discuss specific techniques for integrating Adobe Illustrator with Photoshop, and learn professional techniques for fine art archival pigment printing. Participants will be encouraged to experiment with their favorite drawing sketchbook and media, scanning techniques, and their own digital images to combine all of these elements into a conceptually unified print. Additionally, this class will include a brief introduction to the illustrious history of digital imaging, contemporary ideational strategies for art-making, as well as insightful critical discourse and dialogue for all. Bring sketchbooks, images, and open minds for a fun and informative class! Prerequisites: Beginning level knowledge of Adobe Photoshop and/or digital printmaking, basic traditional drawing or mark-making skills

Tuition: $115 ($144 nonmember)

Roger Whitlock August 6 - 7

Roger Whitlock has been painting in watercolor since 1985. He is a signature member of the Hawai'i Watercolor Society and the Northwest Watercolor Society. Since 1993, he has had over twenty solo shows and has participated in many group shows, both in Hawai'i and on the mainland, and in recent international exhibitions in Taipei City, Taiwan, Sao Paolo, Brazil, and Incheon, Korea. In 2001, Watercolor Magic recognized Whitlock as one of 15 American watercolor painters "to watch." In 2008, he was named by Honolulu Magazine as one of "9 Hawai'i Artists to Collect." In August 2010, Watercolor Artist featured his art in an article called "Twelve by Two" (Aug. 2010). A native of Seattle, he has lived in Honolulu since 1970. He currently teaches the advanced watercolor class at the Honolulu Academy of Arts. His work is in many private and corporate collections; it is also in the collections of the Honolulu Academy of Arts and the State of Hawai'i.

Into the Light: A Watercolor Workshop #150

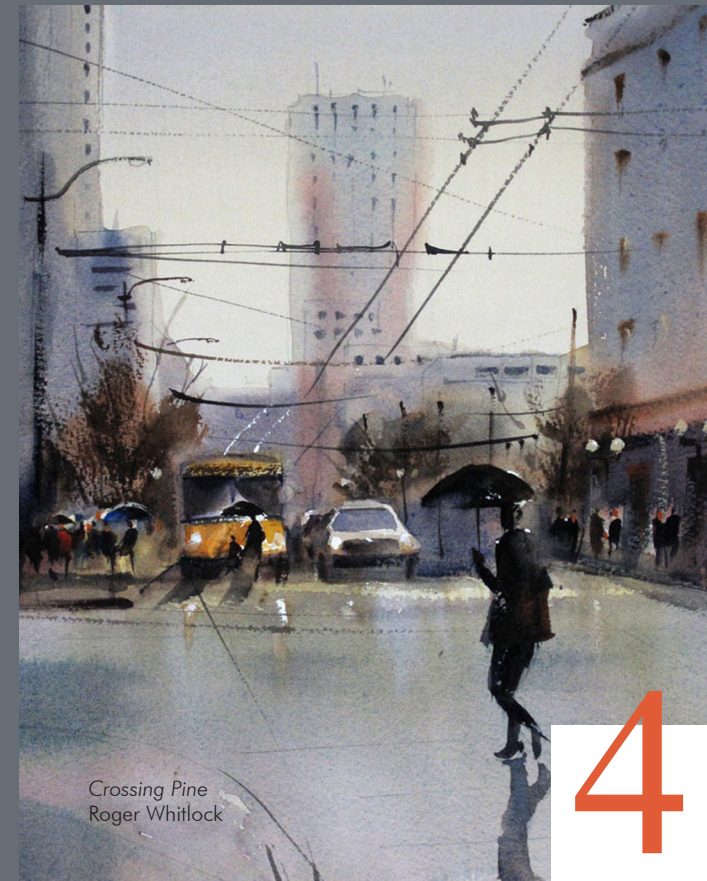

Saturday & Sunday, 2 days

August 6 & 7 / 10:00 am – 3:00 pm

In an "into-the-light" painting, the subject is backlit with the light source illuminating the subject from behind. Most objects in the painting merge into a few large shapes and become silhouettes. The subject matter has been simplified; the painting is atmospheric, often dramatic, and occasionally mysterious. Students will produce a variety of "into-the-light" representational paintings, including landscapes, street scenes, cityscapes, and interiors. Students are encouraged to bring their own "into-the-light" sketches and/or photographs (or use those provided by Roger) and plenty of watercolor paper. Prerequisite: Advanced beginner or intermediate knowledge of watercolor

Tuition: $155 ($194 nonmember)

Japanese Water-Based Woodblock Printing and Collage #169

Casey Neumann

Saturdays & Sunday, 3 days

July 16, 17 & 23 / 10:00 am – 3:00 pm

If you are process and material oriented, you'll love this exploratory printmaking and collage class! After covering the wood cut medium (printing by hand and using water-based inks), the class will delve into Japanese paper mounting techniques, which involve seamlessly fusing multiple, handmade paper fibers together by hand before or after printing. Papers are adhered with wheat starch paste (non-toxic and easy to prepare). The incorporation of fiber-based (i.e. textiles) materials will be covered as well. This is a great opportunity for both beginners and those with experience to learn more about this beautiful medium.

Tuition: $155 ($194 nonmember)

Supply Fee: $35

"Casey is very good at explaining why something is done a certain way. She is always in a good mood! This was definitely a college level class and well taught."

Hui No'eau is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. Contributions to the Hui are tax-deductible in accordance with IRS regulations. Thank you for your interest, generosity, and support. Your contributions make it possible for the Hui to continue bringing great exhibitions and programming to Maui. We can't wait to have you join us as a Hui member!

Hui Spotlight

With the critical responsibilities of overseeing the Hui's membership program and donation solicitations, the job of Membership & Development Coordinator requires an incredible combination of skills: organization and attention to detail, a great memory, and an ability to communicate easily and effectively with people of diverse interests and backgrounds. The Hui is fortunate to have found this brilliant mix of talent in Birgitte Golden, who has coordinated the activities of what is essentially a one-woman department since 2009. Birgitte's genuine compassion for others and dedication to ensuring every task is done with utmost consideration make her an invaluable and respected member of the Hui team. Before bringing her experience to the Hui at the suggestion of her sister, Senior Program Manager Anne-Marie Forsythe, Birgitte earned her Bachelor's Degree in Liberal Studies with an emphasis on Writing and Communications from Oregon State University. She also served as a manager in the financial services and retail industries and as Campaign Associate and Donor Relations Manager for the Maui Arts and Cultural Center.

What do you love most about working at the Hui?

I love working for an organization that values the important role that the arts play in the development of a child. As a mother of two young children, I appreciate the Hui's determination to provide Maui's children with quality arts education both at the Hui and with public and private school outreach programs. We offer scholarships too, which make art accessible to all. I love it!

What has been one of your favorite experiences at Hui No'eau?

When the going gets tough, we all jump in and help each other! This was the case when our annual mailing letter had to get out in the mail and volunteers were scarce during the holidays. I sent out an SOS to the staff and we all met with a couple of awesome volunteers and powered out the mailing of 1300+ letters over music, story telling, and lots of laughter. I was reminded that volunteers are extremely valuable—and we really do have a great group of people working here.

What inspires you to advocate for the cause of arts education on Maui?

Being an alumna of Haleakala Waldorf School, I understand firsthand the impact that art has on the developmental growth of children—socially, intellectually, and emotionally. It helps them recognize and comprehend the world around them, providing ways to express feelings about their own lives and how they relate to others. It builds problem-solving and critical-thinking skills as well as boosts self-confidence. In a challenging economic time, where funding is scarce for public schools and art programs are being cut, it's critical that we join together as a community to make sure Maui's children continue to benefit from a life full of the arts.

Why do you think now is an especially important time to contribute to arts education?

I find profound value in the presence of the arts in the lives of children and adults. In trying times, the arts are extremely cathartic, offering individuals a powerful outlet to process, cope with and express emotions. In a time of war and culturally and ethnically charged aggression, the arts offer an alternative vehicle to better understand each other and our respective cultures. I believe it's vital to continue to support the arts today as we all need and can benefit from art in our lives. At the Hui, we do our best to make that possible for everyone regardless of age, skill set, or income.

About the Hui

Hui No'EAU Visual Arts Center is a 501(c)(3) non-profit arts education organization located in beautiful Upcountry Maui. Since 1934, Hui No'EAU has provided an accessible space for the community to experience and enjoy the visual arts. Throughout the year, the Hui hosts art classes for adults and children, artist lectures, fine art exhibitions, events, tours, and educational outreach programs. Working artist studios are nestled across the grounds and a gallery shop featuring artwork created by Hui members is located in the main house. As a community-based organization, we thank you for helping us continue our mission of unlocking creativity through exceptional visual arts education!
